May seem a strange thing - to run a silent conference - but what should an event organiser do if you are short of breakout rooms for workshops and seminars? Answer: run several groups in the main auditorium, using speaker microphones and receivers similar to those used when listening to live interpreters.

Patrick Dixon, conference keynote speaker and futurist explains corporate event which is silent how it works. Future of corporate events, lectures, presentations, keynotes, workshops and seminars. Leadership, motivation, marketing and management seminars with multiple workshops and seminars in same conference hall. Video made at Globe Forum Sustainability conference session.
