Video comment on economic crisis of 2007-2012: managing risk in great uncertainty. Future of Banking.

Why the world is set for more financial shocks - because so many financial products are complex, not just where mortgages are repackaged and sold on. Hedge funds and other investment groups have many other bets in the market, which could destabilise national economies. US and global impact on banking, mortgages, home loans and financial services. Banking system remains at risk from complex processes that most people don't understand. Regulators, changes in banking regulation, systemic risk, corporate governance, and how banking / financial services products will change as result. How banks will manage risk in future. Comment recorded in November 2007 after keynote speech on global trends in Belgium, but is still very current.
